Step back into time at Old Castlemaine Gaol

First built in 1861, the awe inspiring Castlemaine Gaol has served various functions, including a reformatory school for young boys, a medium security prison and after closing its gates as a gaol in 1990, has been used as a hotel and a tourist attraction. It has even served as the studio for local community radio station WMA FM 94.9 with numerous music performances being hosted regularly.

What once started as a dark and gloomy gaol has now been transformed into a vibrant Arts and Tourist Hub for Castlemaine while still preserving the gaol's rich history. We invite you to join us on a guided tour and explore this phenomenal piece of Australian History.
